Description

This study forms part of a larger international project 'Fiscal Austerity and Urban Innovation' (FAUI). The purpose of the project is to study and analyse how and to what extent the tightening economic resources in society has resulted in changes and renewal within the scope of municipal operations. The questionnaire was directed to chief economic administrators and contained seven different parts: Budgeting and the budgeting process; Changes within the municipality; Planning and working routines; The municipality's economic situation; Fiscal management strategies; Comparisons with other municipalities; and background information.
